HOW WILL IT STAND After the Senators' Terms Expire? WILL THERE BE A THE IN THE SENATE

Twenty Six Senators' Terms End Next March -Who Have Been Re-Elected-The Blair Bill a Dead Issue.

Washington, May 16.—[Special.]—On the 3rd of next March the terms of twenty-six United States senators will expire. The retiring senators are equally divided between the two political parties—thirteen republicans and thirteen democrats. The republicans whose present terms will then end, are: Bowen, of Colorado; Cullom, of Illi-Messrs. Bowen, of Lowa; Plumb, of Kansas; nois; Wilson, of Iowa; Plumb, of Kansas; Frye, of Maine; Hoar, of Massachusetts, Palmer, of Michigan. Sabin, of Minnesota; Manderson, of Nebraska; Chandler, of New Hampshire; Dolph, of Oregon; Chace, of Rhode Island, and Riddleberger, of West

Of these Mr. Wilson has been re-elected for another term of six years and a democrat, Mr. Barbour, has been elected to succeed Mr. Riddleberger. The out-going democrats are: Messrs. Morgan, of Alabama; Berry, of Ar-tansas; Saulsbury, of Delaware; Colquitt, of Georgia; Beck, of Kentucky; Gibson, of Louisiana; Walthall, of Mississippi; Kenna, Mwest Virginia; McPherson, of New Jer-gey, Ransom, of North Carolina; Batler, of South Carolina; Harris, of Tennessee, and Cook, of Texas. Of these Messrs. Beck and Walthall have been re-elected for new terms.

waithan have been re-elected for new terms, beginning the 4th of next March.

Of the republicans, except Riddleburger, there is perhaps but a single seat than can be called at all doubtful. The democrats claim to have a chance of securing a senator in Oregon. They point to the split in the republican party which occurred at the last sevatorial election, when Mr. Mitchell was finally elected by democratic votes and to the fact that the present governor is a democrat as encouraging evidence for them. Of the eleven retiring democrats whose seats remain to be filled, New Jersey is about the only doubtful state. Should the democrats hold the New Jersey seantor that would, with the senator ship gained in Virginia, make the senate a tie. It now stands 39 republicans to 37 democrats. As there are twenty-six republicans holding over to twenty-four democrats, should the latter retain all their seats yet to latter retain all their seats yet to be filled that would give them fourteen more, making their number thirty-eight and the twelve coming in for the republicans would give them the thosen next November would, with his casting vote, hold the balance of power. Should the democrats be able to capture Oregon and re-tain New Jersey, that would just reverse the present status and stand 39 democrats to 37

There was a great deal of bad blood shone to-day in the house of representatives. Just before adjournment there was a lively tussel be tween Messis. Dalzeil of Pennsylvania, republican, and a personal representative of Andrew Carnegie, the great fron king, and Representalive W. L. Scott, of the same state. Dalzell is a young man and possesses no small amount of talent. He undertook to reply to the speech of Mr. Scott, of last Friday, in which he dealt Mr. Carnegie and other iron manufactures some very hard and effective blows, showing wherein they had systematically robbed their smployes and by doing this had built up great fortunes for themselves and their companies. Dalzell was very personal in his remarks and alluded all the time to his colleague, Mr. Scott, as the statesman from Erie.

Mr. Scott smarted somewhat at the personal attack, and on two or three occasions manidested no small amount of temper. Dalzell had made the insinuation that Mr. Scott, himself, as one of the great iron manufacturers of Pennsylvania, had grown rich by coercing to the occasion. He began by saying that he might refer to his colleague, Dalzell, as a gentleman, but in doing so it might be a mistake. The manner in which he punished his antagonist was interesting. To use a common expression, he practically "wiped up the floor with him." He showed how Carnegie and men of his type had robbed the Thompson estate out of several million dollars, and in which Dalzell, himself, was interested as an Attorney. He said his laborers had been paid a dollar more per day at his mines and furnaces than these who had worked for Carnegie. His reply to Dalzell was so crushing and so terribly warm in his denunciation against the men whom Dalzell was the personal representative, that the young republican was forced to subside. At this point, Mr. Brumm, of the same state, who remains in congress the alleged champion of the laborers but in fact the paid representative of the iron and coal kings of the state, arose and asked Mr. Scott if he had not employed detectives to watch the actions of laborers.

Mr. Scott replied, in dignified language, that the man who made that charge was a liar, and as Mr. Brumm had practically made the charge n the house, he would make him prove at the bar of the house.

Mr. Scott was vicious in his reply to his two colleagues, and when he had finished he was the hero of the day, so effectively had he sat upon and flattened out his republican ad-

Political prejudices are being wrought up to the highest point. Every speaker talks and acts as if he were in the highest state of excitement and ready for a fight with any one on the opposite side. The result of the New York convention yesterday in the selection of delegates to the St. Louis convention is a ource of great pleasure to those who are anxious for Mr. Cleveland's renomination, but not to those who are enthusiastically inclined toward the passage of the Mills tariff bill. The result in New York yesterday makes Mr. Cleveland's renomination by acclamation now a certainty. The fact that the Mills bill was not indorsed is looked upon here by the shrewdst managers of the party as indeed hurtful to the chances of the passage of the bill. Great regret has been expressed here that the specific recommendations of President Cleveland's message were ignored and the convention had apparently never heard of the Mills bill. These are regarded as in-deed significant omissions and unfavorable, regarding the action of New York's democratic sentatives in congress. It is alleged as an excuse for these omissions that New York stries dependent largely on the protective tariff for their prosperity, in which hundreds of millions of dollars are invested and at least two members of the delegation at large to St. Louis are financially interested in these concerns, and that it would have been Perhaps too much for human nature to ask the democratic party of the state to come out fairly and squarely in favor of so radical a measure as the Mills bill.

MATSON'S PENSION BILL. The action of Representative Matson, of InAlabama and Tennessee

diana, chairman of the committee on invalid pensions, in reporting his bill, practically asking for new pensions and making an extension of averages, which, in his opinion, would not cost over $250,000,000, is not regarded with any great degree of favor by the democratic party. Mr. Matson is the democratic candidate for governor of his state and his democratic associates have little hesitation in saying that he has introduced the bill for the sake of his own political chances in the coming campaign. The majority of the party leaders are opposed to making any more raids upon the treasury for the express purpose of capturing the soldier vote. The most charitable thing that can be said of Mr. Matson is that he is crazy upon the subject of pensions, and that he wants to bleed the government to the extent of $250,000 that he may be elected governor of Indiana.

Again today there was no quorum in the ed

000,000 that he may be elected governor of Indiana.

Again today there was no quorum in the education committee room, and the Blair bill again goes over, as it will continue to do to the end of the session. The Blair bill is the deadest issue before congress.

The bill to pay Charles L. Bradwell, of Bartow county, $3,750 for cotton captured from him in Savanuah in 1804 has passed the house.

Among the Georgians here today are Rev. Dr. William Adams, of Augusta; Richard Adair, Dr. Tichenor, Dr. Tucker and Mrs. Barnes, of Atlanta.

Senator Colquitt is in New York.

Judge Crisp is expected back on Friday.

An Incident of the Tariff Debate in the House.

Washington, May 16.—The house met this morning at 10 o'clock and went into committee of the whole (Mr. Springer, of Illinois, in the chair) on the tariff bill.

Mr. Baker, of New York, spoke in support of the protective tariff. He cited the prosperous condition of the industries of his district as attributable to the high tariff, and declared that the capital and labor of the country were seriously agitated by the recent development of free trade heresies of the Cobden club, in the ranks of the democratic party. He wished to give the committee the benefit of an object lesson, and in order to do so, produced three pairs of stockings, displaying, as he said, the colors of the American flag, which were manufactured in Rochester, and he invited the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Mills) to visit that city, promising to introduce that gentleman to the woolen factories and to the fair hands that turned out these stockings by the thousands daily. He presented the stockings to the gentleman from Texas, with the suggestion that he send the red ones to the president, the white ones to the speaker, and that he keep the blue ones himself as typical of his own feelings at the end of the session when he beheld the defeat of his measure. [Laughter.]

He predicted that on account of the Mills

when he beheld the defeat of his measure. [Laughter.]
He predicted that on account of the Mills bill an increased republican majority in his district would be given for the republican candidate for the presidency, provided he steered clear of alliterative divines. [Laughter.]
Mr. Brum, of Pennsylvania, regarded the Mills bill as a long stride in the direction of free trade and as the inauguration of a tariff policy which must eventually prove ruinous and disastrous to many important industries in which his people were largely interested. He thanked the president for tearing the mask from his democratic followers. No longer could the favorite sons of Pennsylvania deceive her laboring men by the deleration that the democratic party was in favor of protection. ceive her laboring men by the declaration that the democratic party was in favor of protection. Mr. Randall could not again attempt to save the manufacturing states of Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey to the democratic party as he had done four years ago, and if the democratic party intended to commit political hari kari, Brother Randall would hardly be one of the chief mourners.

Speeches were made by Messrs. Farquhar agains: and Messrs. Weaver and Russell for the bill.

A sharp words appeal

the bil!

A sharp wordy quartel occured between Messrs. Scott and Dalzell and Brumm (also of Pennsylvania) who reinfore d Dalzell. Other speaches were made in favor of the bill by McRae, of Arkansas, and against it by Boyne, of Pennsylvania; Laird, of Nebraska. Ryon, of Kansas and Allen, of Michigan.

The committee then rose and the house at 5:30 took a recess till 8 o'clock.

The resolution offered by Mr. Vest last Monday providing for a select committee to examine questions touching meat and meat products of the United States, was taken up after a long discussion by Messrs. Vest, Manderson, Cullom and Plumb.

The resolution for the select committee was extended so as to make the investigation empty.

The resolution for the select committee was extended so as to make the investigation embrace the trunk line association, Central traffic association and other agencies of transportation, and was rdopted.

The senate bill appropriating $500,000 for the commencement of a boat railway around the obstructions of Columbia river at Dalles and Ceblio Falls was passed.

Ceblic Falls was passed.

The senate then agreed to proceed to the consideration of bills on the calendar and continue thereat for two entire legislative days

Among the bills passed were the senate bill appropriating $10,000 for a public building at Fort Monroe, Va., and senate bills to pay various claimants for cotten taken by General Burnside to strengthen military works at Knoxville, Tenn. Having passed in all 85 bills the senate proceeded to executive business and at 4:45 adjourned.

THE OVERFLOWED RIVERS.

Crops Entirely Destroyed — Business Suspended.

O'Fallon, Mo., May 16.—Water is now an unbroken sheet from bluff to bluff, except in the extreme southwest portion of the bottom. Business on the Keokuk line is wholly suspended, as an open lake of water reaches from St. Peter to beyond old Monroe. No accurate estimate can now be made of damage which may be done within twenty-four hours. Last fall there was a large acreage of wheat sown on these lowlands, and owing to favorable season for corn planting, a large acreage of corn was planted. All of these crops will be wholly destroyed if the rise does not abate. The men who will suffer most are renters, as all of these bottom lands are owned by wealthy men.

Journal M. Mo., May 16.—The gap in Sny levee, through which the whole of the Mississippi is now pouring, has widened almost thirty yards. Sny basin contains 120,000 acres of fine farming land, and it is estimated that fully 75,000 acres will be inundated. Of the submerged lands 50,000 acres are in crops and the majority in wheat. Water is now rushing southward over bottoms covering a space of six miles wide. The water in the river proper is at a standstill.

Quincy, Ill, May 16.—The flood situation grew worse yesterday and it is now most certain that Indian Grove district will be abandoned for years to come. People in the doomed region made a hurried disorderly retreat for the bluffs, the rain adding to the miseries of the homeless unfortunates. Indian Grove region is completely covered with water. No loss of life has yet been reported, but the damage to property in the two districts is known to be not far from $1,500,000.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 16.—[Special.]— The party of high moral ideas met here today, and Hon. W. M. Rule, of Knoxville, was temporary chairman; George W. Henderson, of Grainger, and T. F. Cassees, of Shelby, temporary secretaries. Mr. Rule expressed his appreciation of the honor, and referred to the vicissitudes of party history in this state, stating that four years ago they had reduced the democratic vote 9,000 under the leadership of the man from Maine. [Prolonged cheers.] He thought the present outlook very favorable, and advocated the tariff as a party issue. Among other things he credited the republican party with the recent rapid growth of Memphis, Knoxville, Nashville and Chattanooga.

The standing committees were then announced. To the committee on resolutions was referred all resolutions without debate. The committee comprised first district, Thomas McDermott, of Hawkins; second, D. M. Coffman, of Roane; third, W. F. McCarron, of McMinn: fourth, W. W. Wade, of Deald; fifth, A. F. Montgomery, of Lincoln; sixth, J. R. Dillon, of Davidson; seventh, S. M. Arnell, of Maury; eighth, T. C. Muse, of Madison: ninth, John Walker, of Gibson; tenth, J. T. Settles, of Shelby.

In the afternoon the committee on permanent organization, reported for chairman, W. M. Rule, of Knoxville; secretary Colonel Tom Baker; assistant secretaries, Thos. J. Turner, was referred all resolutions without debate.

Mr. Rule thanked them, but didn't have another speech ready.

Ropresentative Norris, of Shelby, introduced a resolution booming Mr. Wm. R. Moore, of Shelby, for vice president, and moved immediate consideration, which was promptly lost. The report of the committee on credentials was adopted, and while waiting on the platform Alf Taylor was called for. He congratulated them that four years had gone, and Cleveland's term was out an honest party would take the reins new under the man from Maine. [Tremendous applause.]

Boss Houk commenced speaking, and a voice asked: "How about Blaine? If he lives till the convention meets," answered Houk, "he will be nominated."

Hon. A. H. Pettibone also gave the convention some Blaine chin music. He said Blaine could carry New York, New Jersey, Connectitoo. Blaine wash't a candidate, but he'd take it.

The platform committee then reported. The resolutions afirm that the republicans of Tennessee, in convention assembled, reaffirm their loyalty, faith and unfaltering allegiance to the principles and policy of the republican party, the party whose time-honored doctrines have stood the fierce scrutiny and criticism of friends and foes; that the innumerable benefits enjoyed by the whole country are due solely to the republican party and the tariff for pretection; that they favor the Blair bill; that the internal revenue law should be repealed; that they oppose all trusts; that James G. Blaine's Paris letter in answer to Cleveland's message is good doctrine; that all democrats and other persons are invited to vote the republican ticket. The platform was adopted without discussion.

and other persons are invited to vote the republican ticket. The platterm was adopted without discussion.

The election of delegates to Chicago then came up, and disorder is no name far the turmoil that raged throughout the hall. For delegates for the state at large fifteen aspirants were prominated, each with a long winded oratorical effort describing the matchless bearing and countless good qualities of his man.
In each case the name of party talked about was held back till the last, so that the convention might get into the proper state of feverish anxiety to know who was being presented.
R. R. Butler appealed to the convention to give the colored brethren one, hinting that it would be good policy to give the African a fair shake just now to keep him from being gobbled up by the democrats.
Motions were made to nominate Sam McElwee, colored, and Alf Taylor, by acclamation.
Then the monkey and the parrot stepped in and it was demanded to know who these delegates were for. It was announced that S. A. McElwee was for Blaine, whereupon he was unanimously chosen delegate. A. A. Taylor's election by acclamation was demanded; he too being known to be for Blaine, was elected amidst a pandemonium of yells. Leonidas Cassar Honk's election by acclamation was demanded, but the middle Tennessee men demanded who they would get in and "middle Tennessee can't have anybody" was the yelling response. "They are all against Blaine."

Fifty motions to nominate Houk by acclamation were made, and forty-eight motions to lay those motions on the table. No such screaming and yelling and howling were ever known in Tennessee. The chair refused to recognize anybody till order was restored, and they yelled louder than ever. The election of L. C. Houk and I. B. Merriam was demanded, but the middle Tennessee men circulated a report that Houk had withdrawn, while the ballot was under way. The opposition to Houk was because of his supposed hostility to Blaine. As soon as he amounced a change of heart, he was declared elected, as was also General Geo. Maney, Merriam just missing election. The Merriam men claimed to have been counted out, but could not get a hearing. They openly charged that neither Houk nor Maney were elected, but they couldn't prove it. Maney and Houk pledged themselves for Blaine. Houk vainly endeavored to dodge a direct answer, but he had to talk out, and then the convention adjourned until 8 p. m.

Montgomery, Ala., May 16.—[Special.]—
The state republican convention reassembled at 10 o'clock this morning. Albert Boyd, colored, of Birmingham, temporary president, and R. A. Mosely, white, of Decatur, temporary secretary, were made the permanent officers of the convention. The committee on rules and order of business submitted a report, which was attacked by Lewis E. Parsons, Jr., who charged that it was a cut and dried thing in the interest of a few men who wanted to get on the national delegation and control things for John Sherman and Sherman's money. Parsons is a son of ex-Governor L. E. Parsons, and a staunch supporter of Blaine for the nomination to the presidency. After a long and lively discussion, and some alterations, the report was adopted.

Resolved, That while we deprecate all sectional issues, and wish for harmony between all the citizens of our great country, we demand as the legal and constitutional right of the people, that the exercise of the right of sufrage shall be free, and shall be untrammeled, and that the ballots shall be counted and returned as cast in all sections of this great republic, and to help secure this end we favor a national law to regulate the election of members of congress and presidential elections and demand that the election law of Alabama be so framed as to hinder fraud, and not to encourage it.
Resolved, That we condemn President Cleveland's tariff message, and the Milis tariff till as tending toward free trade, and to the destruction of American labor to the service condition of European labor, and we favor liberal protection to all American industries and labor.

Resolved, That we condemn Senator Morgan's declaration that the vast imineral wealth of Alabama as a "doubtful blessing," because it tends to increase the laboring man's wages as hostile to labor, which is the great foundation of human progress and wealth.

Resolved, That we favor national aid for the education of the children of the republic, and therefore inders the Blair bill.

Resolved, That we favor civil service reform, and con ema President Cleveland's wholesale removal from other for art freedom, while, professing civil service teform.

Resolved, That we favor the entire abolition of the internal revenue system.

Resolved, That we oppose now, as heretofore, the present convict system of Alabama as brutal, and because it brings convict labor into competition with honest free labor.

This avening the republican convention put out the following state ticket: W. T. Ewing, of Etowah country, for governot; S. T. Fowler, of St. Clair, for treasurer; R. S. Heffin, of Randolph, for auditor; John M. Clark, of Lawrence, for superintendent of selucation; J. J. Woodall, of Morgan, for secretary of state; George H. W. Berry, of Nelson, was made temporary chairman.

Mr. Burbour in calling the convention to order spoke briefly. He said the convention had been called together not to consider state affairs but to nominate presidential electors and to send delegates to the St. Louis national convention. As to question of the candidate to be nominated at that convention he said that fortunately for harmony in the party there seemed to be no division of sentiment in the country. The administration of Mr. Cleveland as a whole has commanded the approbation of democrats, throughout the country, and his re-nomination at St Louis has virtually been made already. Touching question of platform Barbour did not see why the convention should alarm itself about declaration of the abstraction commonly called a platform. It is a national election and the national convention is the proper forum to discuss and decide upon a platform of principles. The platform adopted by the democratic party in 1884, at Chicago, which refers to the internal revenue system as a war tax and calls for a reduction of revenue ought to be sufficient.

While the convention was waiting for the committee on permanent organization Governor Fitzhugh Lee, who was in the city, was invited to the convention. His presence was greeted with great applause. In addressing the conyention, Governor Lee said in reference to the state debt:

"It is fur thit one of the great questions I have had to deat with as governor of the state the problem of the state debt, is not yet served. One of the difficulties we have labored under is, that creditors holding obligations of the state known as bonds of 1871, are separated from us by the Atlantic ocean. The affinits of foreign bondholders have been committed to a syndicate of gentlemen who reside in London, and whose business it is to make a settlement between different countries, and being their creditors the Virginia committee of that council has had charge of the cases called Virginia bonds, and some of the members of that committee themselves have been purchasers of coupons and bave sent them over to this country by an agent for the purpose of giving them to our taxpayers upon such conditions as will not them a handsone profit. It can be, therefore, readily comprehended that their advice to holders of bonds of that description would be againt funding them into bonds of either discreption, so long as they can make money by handling coupens. The state of Virginia demands that the public schools shall recieve all they are entitled to by the law and constitution: that he insane and those who are not able to wait on themselves shall be carried on. McKenny, of Farnville, and R. C. Marshall, of Portsmouth, delegates at large. The committee on resolutions made a report in substance as follows, which was unanimously adopted:

The simple and plain duty of the people is, in the language of President Cleveland, to reduce taxation to the necessary expenses of an economical operation of the government, and restore to the business of the country the money which we hold in the treasury. These things can and should be done with safety to all our industries, without danger to the opportunities for remunerative labor which our workingmen need and with benefit to them and all our people by cheapening their means of subsistence and increasing the measures of their comforts. That while we remit to the national democratic convention, about to assemble at St. Louis, the formation of the issue between the democratic and republican parties, we reaffirm the time-honored principles of democratic faith upon which Grover Cleveland was nominated and elected president of the United States. We indorse his wise, conservative, honest, fearless and economical administration, and pledge our hearty support to his renomination and re-election. Cleveland's Administration Indorsed, and His Renomination Demanded.

DAYTON, O., May 16.—Hon. Samuel F. Hunt was made chairman of the democratic convention. Nominations were made as follows: Sceretary of state—Boston G. Young, of Marion county; judge of the supreme court—Lyman R. Critchfield, Holmes county; board of public works—Gaines Emmitt, Pike county; all by acclamation. The resolutions were adopted unanimously. The platform indorses, without qualification, President Cleveland's administration, and declares that his renomination is demanded by the interests of the country. It approves the Mills tariff bill; demands that government lands be held for actual settlers; favors liberal pensions to soldiers and saliors; demands economical expenditures of the public money, and the reduction of the surplus by reduced taxation; expresses sympathy for struggling Ireland; favors such restraint on corporate power as will protect honest labor, and recommends the repeal of the duties upon industries combined into trusts to erect monopolies.

Following is the text of the platform:

I. We endorse, without qualification, the arministicom of Presicent Cleveland. His honesty, integrity, facility, to principle, and manly courage have endeared him to the American people, and the interests of the country demand his re-nomina.

the interests of the country demand his re-nomination and election.

2. We approve the Mills tariff bill as the practical expression of the democratic raty and request our representatives in congress to give it their cardial support.

8. We demand that all lands of the government be held for the actual settlers who are citizens of the United stares, and for those who declare their intention to become such, and we indore the sincessful elorisof the administration to recover public lam s, which have been squandered thom railroad corporations by reckless republican congresses.

4. We favor the payment of fiberal pensions to union soldiers and sailors and the tender care for their widows and orphans.

5. We demand an economical expenditure of the public money and the reduction of the surplus in the treasury by reduced taxation and not by extravagant and corrunting appropriations. The money of the people should not be taken from them beyond the needs of an economical administration and the payment of just obligations.

Yost and other prominent republicans, leading opposition to the unit rule and the present plan of party organization are here organizing their adherents for tomorrow's struggle. Senator Riddleberger and Hon. John S. Wise tonight addressed large opposition meetings and both speakers urged members of the party roact fearlessly and independently.

It seems to be by general signs that there will be a bolt in the convention tomorrow and that the anti-Mahone men, unless their demands are yielded to, will form another convention and adopt resolutions claiming that the delegates to Chicago by the Mahone body were not elected in conformity with the plan of the national committee. It seems probable that there will be two sets of delegates sent from Virginia to the national republican convention.

bady. The features of the convention were enthusiastically displayed at the mention of President Cleveland samen, as well as that of Governor Buckner, and the speeches of Henry Watterson and Senator Blackburn. Their addresses may be regarded as the opening of the campaign of 1886 in Kentucky. They were in complet harmony with the position of President Cleveland, on the tariff and all other positions, fully indorsing the administration. Mr. Watterson made his speech in response to loud calls, and Senator Blackburn spoke on being chosen permanent chairman of the convention. Resolutions, which were adopted with great enthusiasm, declare unqualified confidence in the administration of Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, and their unflagging devotion to the doctrines laid down in his last annual message, etc.

MRS. SCOFIELD SUPPRESSED.

She Was About to Tell the Coroner all About Hatch's Death.

New York, May 16.—The coroner's jury, which has been investigating the death of Nathanial W. I. Hatch, finished its labors last evening and recurned a verdict that Hatch, who was found dead in the rear yard of 64 West Twentieth street, in this city, on the morning of the 8th of May, 1883, met his death by accidentally falling off or jumping from the rear extension of said premises impelled through his fear of exposure or violence, having been enticed to said premises by David C. Ferris and Mrs. L. E. Scofield. Ccroner Levy placed Mrs. Scofield and Ferris under bail and in default of $5,000 in the case of Ferris, and $2,500 in the case of Mrs. Scofield, he committed them to the house of detention to await the action of the grand jury.

Mrs. Scofield created a sensation by addressing the coroner on the announcement of the verdict, declaring that she had concealed certain things up to that time and offering to make a clean breast of the affair. She was vigorously quieted by her counsel and finally left the court room without making the promised disclosures. She was heard to say, while hysterically talking to herself after being suppressed, that it was not Ferris but Scofield from whom Hatch was running away. Another of the day's sensations was produced by the testimony of a picture dealer named Hooper, that he had, in March, 1880, sold some pictures to Mrs. Scofield was discharged from the She Was About to Tell the Coroner all About Hatch's Death.

The LaGrange Reporter says that President Rufus W. Smith farmed fourteen years after the war and still carries a few hay seed in his hair. Next to teaching he loves farming, and he runs the big college garden and patch on sound agricultural principles. When he cuts his wheat he is going to sow the land, first, with cotton seed, and then with peas. He thinks these make fine fertilizers.

The Covington Star makes this suggestion It is said the prohibitionists of Fulton county have determined to put out a full legislative ticket in the coming election, with a view of forcing a state pro-tibitory law. They had better stick to the local option law, as it now stands.

Some time ago a man calling himself Frank L. Wilson appeared in LaGrange and tried to lot of goods, for which he asked payment in advance. This the lady declined to give, unless he produced satisfactory evidence that he was indeed the representative of the house—B. Altman & Co., New York-for whom he claimed to be acting. He then produced a telegram purporting to be from them, which teemed to verify his claims. Still the lady nesitated to take his goods, and finally declined upon advice. She then wrote Altman who replied that Wilson was a swindler, and suggested that she give the facts for the benefit of her neighbors.

The Lumpkin Independent tells an interesting story about Oconee, an old Indian village on the banks of the Chattahoochee river, just at the terminus of the survey recently made by the Americus, Preston and Lumpkin railroad from Louvale to that place. During the session of the legislature last summer, Hon. R. F. Watts, representative from Stewart county, while inquisitively examining some of the old archives of the state, came across a rude map of the country in its pristine condition, while yet in the possession of the Indians. This map was probably draughted by some pioneer surveyors of public lands many years ago. On this map Judge Watts noticed that there was located in the upper part of the county the site of an Indian village called by them Oconee. He retained this in his mind, with the mental resolve of making an exploration for the site whenever opportunity presented itself. The recent survey of the Americus, Preston and Lumpkin extension to the Chattahoochee river gave him this eagerly desired opportunity, while canvassing for subscriptions in that Last Wednesday Judge Watts, in company with Mr. W. J. Chestnut and Dr. W. H. Ta-lum, started out on a search for the site of the long-lost-sight-of town, once thickly populated by a hardy, athletic, brave and warlike race of people, who have long since passed away, with nothing to perpetuate their memory but the beautiful and euphonious names which they gave to the rivers, mountains, valleys, creeks and towns. The soft, liquid ripplings of the brooks and rivulets were not more millifluous than the smoothness of their beautiful names Under the guidance of Judge Watts, the party soon discovered the site of the long lost vil-lage. He soon loaded himself down with al relics of the lost tribe Creeks. Among them were many pieces of human bones, from different parts of the skelston, a hatful of fragments of pottery and water vessels, and numerous telts, arrow heads, a tomahawk, etc.

The site of the ancient village is in a field of W. J. Chesnut's, and has been cultivated many years. Near by is a beautiful grove, in several fine springs of delightful water, and the paths of the red man leading to those springe are clearly defined to this day. The place where they had their green corn dances can also be identified, the ground being so smooth and firmly impacted that grass and vegetation can hardly find root-ling in it. This is the birthplace of Paddy Carr, whief of the Uchee tribes, a half-breed, whose ther was a Creek woman and his father an Trishman. He had a good education and actas interpreter in important transactions with the whites. This ancient village is not more than a hundred yards from the terminus of the survey, and the depot buildings will be near by. It is also about six miles southwest from Jamestown, in Chattehoochee county. Judge Watts is enthusiastic over his find, and thinks it a happy coincidence that the name of the depot of the Americus, Preston and Lnmpkin at that point will but revive and perpet ata the memory of the lost village of an exof this vast country. tinct people, who were once "lords and rulers"

There is a growing evil in this county that if not stoped by the good people of the county in a most stoped by the good people of the county is going to involve the county in another burden of debt and taxation like that under which we have suffered ever since the county was made. We refer to the potty, spiteful, malicious prosecution that our grand juries have for the last two years listened to, and on which they have returned bills of indictment. These spiteful prosecutors or prosecutions have within the last two years, been enough to cost the mies of the prosecuted, who are too cowardly and miscreant in their natures to stand up like men and take their own parts, but sneak around the grand jury room, and, as soon as they catch the ear of a grand juror, they pour into it a tale of wrong doing that would abash hell itself, if such a thing were possible. They say, "I don't want to be known in this matter, but the facts are true, and if you will bring before your body Bill Jones, Tom, Diek and Harry they will give you all the facts, and can hen make a special presentment." This thing has cone on in this county until it has got to be a stench in the nostrils of all honest men, and we think it high time the men of the county who are considred upright, moral and intelligent enough to have their names in the grand jury box were putting a stop to it. The tax payers of the county demand that their money shall not go to gratifying the spleen of any such Rancy Sniffles, and they are right.

Apropos of the recent Atheistic discussion in Athens, the enterprising Graphic reprints the following from the Elberton Leader:

We like to see a newspaper jealous of the reputation of its town, especially if it is really a virtuous one; but the Banner-Watchman appears to defend Athens when there is no demand for it, and even when a charge is made against which there is no lefense but raillery. Really, the B.-W. impresse one as a great big gas bag without anything sub stantial about it.

Its latest solicitude is caused by a statement of the Constitution's enterprising correspondent that he had discovered a few Athelsts in the city. The young man had conversed with a few of the band, but the B,-W. let off its gas, and a mighty stink it raised. We have no doubt that Athens contains as good people as any city in the world; we are just about as certain there is Atheism there, just as the corresnondent stated, among business men, professional nen and students, and even the ladies. The Watchman takes the wrong method to dispose of the assertion; it interviews the ministers and ther leaders of religious sentiment, when every body knows they, less than anybody else, frequent the haunts of vice. Open Atheism is less detri-mental to Christian religion than bypocical profession of Christianity; vet every community, almost, suffers from this cause, 1f THE CONSTITUTION should say there were hypocrites in Athens, we wonder what the Bauner-Watchman would say to

Water From the Rocks.

Water From the Rocks.

Maddison, Ga., May 16.—[Special.]—A strange freak of nature occurred on the plantation of Mrs. T. W. Head, on the Appalachee river, nine miles from Madison. At this place is a mill, and for a quarter of a zentury a mill has stood there. Your correspondent remembers what a task it has always been to bring drinking water to this mill, as no spring or well was within a half mile of the place. Recently, however, this much desired article has been supplied, and without any effort on the part of the people. One night, recently, a bold, clear, cool spring suddenly broke forth from among the rocks, and now the miller is happy. People living here, who have known the place for thirty years, can youch for the truth of the story, and will swear that there never was a spring there b fore. that there never was a spring there b fore.

The party will leave here at 6:30 in the morning, spend some time in Macon, take dinner at the Hotel Lauler, and return in the afternoon. Colonel Frobel and Mr. McEvoy are also arranging their plans to give our town a cheap excursion to Macon in the near future.

With the College.
Oxford, Ga., May 16.—[Special.]—Te-day Emory's seniors sever their connection with their alma mater in accordance with the college statutes, which provide for the dismissal one month before commencement.

The members of the class, with a few exceptions, will leave for their various homes tomorrow when the honors are awarded and the senior speakers places made known. Some, whose homes are in Florida and Mississippi, will remain in Oxford till after commencement. The senior class numbers thirty-one, being next to the largest class that has ever graduated at Emory. All the faculty concur in acknowledging that the present seniors by far surpass all their predecessors in intellectual abilities; the finest Greek schollars, the best mathematicians, the most thorough English scholars that have ever graduated at old Emory are members of class '88. And the loss of these brilliant examples will be much regretted by the faculty and undergraduates. The members of the class are mostly Georgians; California has one, Mississippi

The road has been graded from Dublin to the Fitzpatrick place, which is sixteen miles below Macon. The surveying corps located about twenty lines in all, but the last one is the most satisfaciory. The great hill fifteen miles from town will be cut through one side and cause a cut thirty feet feet deep.

The line selected by the surveyors has been examined by the contractors who intend going to work at once. Colonel Machen offered to take a bet last night that the next cotton crop of that section would be brought in over the Macon and Dublin, but no taker was to be found.

Bleckley, C. J.—1. If the facts had remained substantially as the testatrix contemplated them, there would have been no question as to a proper and literal execution of her will; but on account of unfortunate and unexpected circupstances, it became impossible to administer the will as she intended it should be; and all that the court can do is to make some approximation to the substantial scheme which she enunciated in her will. Whether the approximation made by the court below was entirely proper, is a matter of some doubt, but unless this court could determine the matter better than that court, the result reached by it should not be interfered with.

2. As matter of strict legal right, it was never contemplated by the will that any debt should arise in favor of one beneficiary of the estate against another, payable out of income or corpus. It was never contemplated by testatrix that any one of her children entitled to education and support should ever have a debt against the estate or against the other children, arising from not enjoying that education and support; and the claim made here is in the nature of a debt asscreed by one of the beneficiaries against the others, it being that the minor, who is the beneficiary in this case, is entitled under the will to have arreages which nave accumulated, or are said to have accumulated, in his favor on account of his not having received past support, etc., out of the estate, allowed him in the distribution or division of the corpus thereof, or which shall take place in the future.

3. This minor was entitled to maintenance from two sources; first, from his father, and, secondly, from his mother's estate. Having enjoyed it from his father, he cannot, as a matter of strict law, under the will, claim any other support or compensation for missing it out of his mother's estate.

4. While it does not clearly appear that the decision below was right, the burden of showing error is always or its steamers at a river bridge. Code, 30322James vs. Smith, 62 Ga. 345, cited and distinguished.

2. There is no statutory provision subjecting counties to actions for detaining steamers or craft of any kind upon the water. Whether done by means of bridges or by other obstructions, there is no redress for it against the county. Indeed, the county cannot do it, because there is no agency recognized by law to represent it in committing torts of this character. County of Monroe vs. Flynt, this term; Smith vs. Wilkes and McDuffie counties, March term, 1887.

3. As there was no cause for action against the county, there was nothing to amend by;
and whatever may have been the amendment proposed, it was properly rejected.

Judgment affirmed.

Evans vs. Kilby et al. Motion to reinstate. Practice in supreme court.
Bleckley, C. J.—A motion to reinstate a case which has been dismissed by this court for want of prosecution, for providential cause, such as, that the wife of counsel for plaintiff in error was, at the time of dismissal, expecting to be confined and required her husband's attention, will be denied; there being no suggestion that such providential cause arose so suddenly that counsel could not have forseen that he ought to make an application for continuance, or file his brief so that the case might be heard in his absence. Especially is this true where counsel lives in the county adjoining that in which this court is held, between the county sites of which there are facilities for communication by railroad and telephone; and where it further appeared that without any change of his wife's condition, so far as was shown, counsel did attend this court on the morning of May 9th, the case having been dismissed on May 7th. Before Judge Fain.

against an estate is barred, and such judgment has not been reversed or set aside, the administrator cannot do anything thereafter which will revive such claim as a debt against the estate, or render his sureties liable because of failure to pay the debt. If he do acknowledge such claims and pay them, he and his sureties are, nevertheless, liable to the proper distributes for the money of the estate so applied.

2. Claims which the administrator held in his hands, as attorney at law, at the time he took out letters, which have never been paid, and as to which there is no liability on him to pay them, the creditors, to whom such claims belonged, being barred by the statute of limitations of any right against him either as attorney or administrator, are not such claims as he or his sureties are entitled to credit for in a suit upon his bond by the ordinary for the use

Covington vs. W. & A. R. R. Co. Case, from Gordon. Railroads. Damages. Passenger. Negligence. Charge of Court Before Judge Fain.
Biandford, J.—1. Where the plaintiff who testified in his own behalf did not testify that he acted under any excitement when he jumped from the train, and there was no allegation in his declaration on the subject, it was not error to refuse to give a charge to the jury based upon the legal effect of such excitement, as tending to excuse what might otherwise be considered a rash act.

2. A charge which takes from the consideration of the jury the question of whether jumping from a moving train was an act of negligence or not, is erroneous. West End and Atlanta Street R. R. Co. vs. Mozely, October term, 1887.

Atlanta Street R. R. Co. vs. Alony, Colored term, 1887.

3. The only question which is involved in this case is, whether the railroad company stopped its train at a reasonably sufficient time to allow the plaintiff, a passenger, to alight in safety. If it did, and he jumped off the train after it was again in motion, he cannot recover. If it did not, and he in attempting to get off he was not guilty of such negligence as to bar his right to recover, he would be entitled to recover such damages as he may have sustained.

O'Shields vs. the State. Burglary, from Bartow. Procedure. Before Judge Fain. Blanford. J .- Where during the progress Blanford. J.—Where during the progress of the argument to the jury in a criminal trial, the judge stated to defendant's counsel that he desire to step out for a little while and asked that if there were any objections, and none being made, did go out of the court room and remained out for two or three minutes, allowing the argument to go on in his absence, a new trial does not necessarily resul from such action. The judge acted improperly in not suspending the trial during his absence, but no objection was made and no motion made to have a mistrial declared in consequence of this action; and it is not pretended that any harm resulted to defendant because of it. Judgment affirmed.

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 17, 1888.

A Railroad's Great Future. The stockholders of the Marietta and North Georgia railroad will hold their regular annual meeting at Marietta tomorrow morning, and the showing which will be made in the working, improvement, and outlook of the road will no doubt be very gratifying to them, as well as to the people of the whole state.

The progress which this road has made during the past year has been remarkable, It has been completed to the town of Murphy, N. C., and through daily trains are now running between Marietta and Murphy, opening up one of the richest sections of the United States, and putting the vast resources of that country at the very doors of every city in the country.

The owners of the road went to work with undaunted energy after the refusal of the last legislature to grant the application allowing the extension of the road into Atlanta. Instead of allowing this to retard the progress of their work, they continued the improvements which had been begun on the road, with renewed energy, and their efforts have resulted in assuring the people of the state that it will not be long before the road will become one of the most important in the south. Almost the entire distance between Marietta and Murphy is now ready for the change to standard gauge. The road bed has been widened and broad gauge ties have been laid for nearly half of the distance, and the work of putting the entire line in readiness for the change of gauge, which will be made in August, is progressing with all the rapidity with which it is possible for the company to prosecute the work. For the twenty-five miles between Marietta and Canton, almost an entirely new railroad is being built. This section of the road was built first, and it has been found that its grades and curves will not be suitable for the wider gauge; consequently it will be abandoned for a new, and more practicable route. Some of the heaviest work on the whole line is in this section, and the work on the new line will shorten the distance between Marietta and Canton nearly two miles. It runs along the present line, frequently crossing it, and in the main is as Blodgett held to the property, parties seenearly a straight line as possible through the ing the land unused settled portions of it very sinuous course of the present route.

From Canton to Murphy the construction of the road was made with a view to the change of gauge; therefore this part of the line can be put in proper condition for the change with comparatively little work.

The new rails for the change have been ordered, and the Baldwin Locomotive Works are now engaged in constructing five nineteen-inch cylinder engines for the road, which engines will be the largest in the

It is of course only a question of time as to when the railroad will be extended from Marietta to Atlanta, and there is now scarcely a doubt but that the next legislature will grant this privilege. The city of Knoxville voted $300,000 for the extension of the road to that city, and this work is now being pushed as rapidly as possible. Going through one of the roughest and most mounous sections of the south, the work i seessarily slow, but its completion is a certainty. The owners of the road are exreedingly anxious to begin the work of extension to Atlanta, which, when started can be completed in a short while. The people along the line are enthusiastic over the proposed extension, which will benefit them more than it will the road.

The bill granting the extension received sixty-eight votes in the last legislature with but little over a majority of the house voting, and if a full vote had been secured, it would have undoubtedly passed, notwithstanding the strenuous opposition with which it met. A large majority of the newspapers of the state opposed the extension on the ground that it would injure the State road, and the supposed conflict between the two roads was what defeated the bill. Since the adjournment of the legislature there has been a wonderful change of centiment throughout the state on the question. The recent meeting of the press association of the state developed the fact that there was not a single newspaper represented that would not urge the passage of such a bill before the next legislature. As nearly every paper in the state was represented, and as many of those present opposed the bill before, this is an indication of the change of sentiment which will demand the passage of the bill

This road, when completed between Atlanta and Knoxville, will become one of the most important through lines in the south. and the wonderful resources which it will develop will astonish the world, and attract millions of capital to the state.

THE Albany News and Advertiser appears to be pleased because THE CONSTIrution retains its good humor under any and all circumstances. The Raging River.

The rise of the Mississippi river is beginming to look serious. In Missouri and conliguous regions the overflow has already raused great damage. Thousands of acres of fertile bottom land, with growing crops on them, are under water, and the result will

As yet we have had no reports from Mississippi and Louisiana, and it is to be hoped that is to be expected in the lower Mississippi region.

The Mississippl is one of the streams that seem bound to have their way. Fed by a thousand smaller rivers and creeks, and by an accumulation of millions of tons of winter snows, it overcomes the puny efforts of man and goes its own way regardless of levees and obstructions. What today is a channel for the largest steamboats is tomorrow a barren mud bank.

Let us hope that the damage will be no greater than that already reported.

DR JOSEPH MEDILL doesn't know whether to nominate Judge Gresham, or the Hon. Al. Falfa Lucerne for president. In other words, Dr. Medill is up to his eminent ears in a quandary.

THE Louisiana legislature will shortly elect two United States senators. One will neceed Randall Gibson, whose time exires next March, and the other will suced James B. Eustis, whose term expires in 1891. Both of these gentlemen are can-didates for re-election. It is probable that Governor McEnery will be a candidate also. His term as governor expires next Monday.

A Bonanza for the Blodgetts. The heirs of Samuel Blodgett have at last secured title to 250 acres of land in the city of Washington, and the last legal steps have been taken, by which the estate is assured to them.

The land comprises almost all of a long parallelogram that stretches from Massachusetts avenue to New Jersey avenue, and from North N. street to North T. street. The property is only about five or six quares from the white house, and is valed at $8,000,000.

Briefly told the history of the estate is as follows: When the government decided to found the city of Washington, the commissioners appointed to execute the plans. agreed that property holders should deed half of their property to the city. The property thus given to the city was to be sold and the city was to be laid out and built with the proceeds. Property owners were to receive returns for the donation in the enhancement of the value of the half they still held. A Virginia family named Waring refused to enter into such an agreement; proposing to hold all, or sell Samuel Blodgett, then living in Philadelphia, heard of the Waring property, and having faith in the future of the city. bought the estate for $40,000 and gave half of it to the government, as the commissioners required. In 1814 Mr. Blodgett died without seeing the streets of the city extended in his direction or in any way reaping benefit from his purchase. His widow died in 1841 and soon afterwards Lorin Blodgett, of Philadelphia, was asked by the heirs to take charge of it and a deed of trust, giving him one-half interest in the estate was executed to him, he becoming responsible for taxes and other charges. Although no one ever disputed the title Mr.

At this time there are two hundred houses on the land, but as none of the householders have been there for twenty years they cannot claim the property under the old common laws of occupancy. Steps were finally taken to clear up the titles to their estate. The case came up before the equity court in Washington, and the heirs were represented by Judge Hildebrand, of Cinnnati, and Judge John L. Johnson, of Washington. As none of those living on the estate made any pretense to defense, the heirs were given a clear title and Judge John J. Johnson was make general administrator of the estate.

About sixty suits of ejectment have already been filed against those who have buildings erected on the property, and others will follow. The heirs now want to divide and sell the estate, and as it is vald at over $8,000,000, it will be seen that they will be amply paid for their long wait-

MAYOR HEWITT, of New York, was interviewed the other day by a committee of the locked out brewers. Next to London, New York has the mos complete underground system of gas, water and sewerage in the world. The New York Star, in a three column article, shows the advance New York has made in this direction and its improvements over old methods. Of the 12,500 acres of the city's surface, 9,500 acres have a complete sewerage system. The Croton water distributing system of street mains comprises 619.88 miles of pipes to say nothing of various private water pipes run to the river by large manufacturers for their exclusive use of their establishments. The gas mains aggregate 700 miles and the total mileage of sewers is 421½ miles. Many of these sewers are of enormous proportions, one extending from Eighth ave. to the East river is 8x12 feet, while the sewer from Broadway through Canal street to North river is 8x16 feet, quite large enough to drive a horse and carriage through comfortably. The large sewers are built of brick, laid in cement, and rest upon a semicircular concrete foundation which protects its base and sides. The most important and inexpensive of the new sewers are of the "wooden barrel" outlet pattern. These sewers are constructed of heavy creosoted pine and are circular in shape. The large sewers of New York furnish harbors for criminals of every class. They are not so much used by criminals now as they were several years ago, as the police are more vigilant in their espionage of the sewer entrances. On one occo-sion, when Geo. W. Matsell was chief of police, a murderer was traced to a notoriou sert of criminals on Houston street. The building was so completely surrounded that the man could not have escaped without being seen by the officers, and yet, when they came to look for him, he had disappeared as ffeetually and as mysteriously as if he had vanished in air. A few months later another criminal was hemmed in, in the same house and though search was made in the most tho ough manner the man was not found. The chief, after a critical examination of the cellar, detected a slab which was not mortared as firmly as the rest.
Upon moving it he found an underground age to a large sewer, and by following the sewer some distance he found another burrowed passage which led to the cellar of a house a block and a half away. THE BUINOUS EFFECTS on the industrial classes by the maintenance of colossal armies by the governments of Europe, is better illustrated in the instance of Russia than any other country in Europe. In that country the agricultural industry is in a most deplorable condition and the fermion of the fermion of the condition. Missouri will in some sort mitigate the danger | condition, and the farmers and peasants, instead of bettering their condition, are growing poorer every day. The poor people are mad-to bend their necks to the most burdensome taxation to support the machinery to maintain the government's despotism. In every country in Europe, the weight of taxation to sustain tained, is made to bear particularly heavy on the poorer classes. It is no wonder that em gration from all parts of Europe is on the con stant increase, and that the people are turning to the United States as the one government they can escape the burdens from which they are compelled to fly. Our country becomes more glorious than ever when con-trasted with the monarch-ridden governments

A NEW GOVERNMENT building is to be erec ed in El Paso, Texas, and the site selected for it is at present occupied by an extensive structure covering a whole block. In this building a number of Chinese lived, and consternation prevailed among them when they were ordered to vacate. When the brilding was cleared it was found that the whole block was undermined with hidden tunnels and chambers, in which all sorts of violations of the law have been carried on. The Chinese occupied the building like so many rats, and it is expected that when the work of excavation begins som strange discoveries will be made.

THE ELECTION which takes place in Orego on the 5th of Jure will be watched with great deal of interest by both parties; and the democrats are victorious their prospects of gaining control of the United States senate at the next session will be very bright. Oregon is considered a republican state, but it is by n means certainly so. The democrats are making a vigorous campaign, and believe that they vill be able to elect a senator to succeed Mr. Dolph. If this is done, and New Jersey is held, the republican majority in the senate will be overcome.

Ir is now a frequent occurrence that the news is conveyed of accidental death by elec-tricity, occasioned by contact with electric wires. An experienced New York lineman was killed a few days ago by such an accident, and similar deaths have been reported from all parts of the country. The most scrupulous are should be exercised in avoiding the possibility of such occurrences.

WALKS AND TALKS.

As a result of the improvements made and eing mide at Ponce de Leon Springs that popular sort has become one of the prettiest spots in Georgia.

People who have not visited the springs this year will be more than surprised at the many improvements that have been made. It is impossible to enumerate all of these. An artistic wall of mesonry between the little springs the litt has been built over the big spring; the little spring at the south end of the grounds has been made more attractive; the buildings have been repaired and new buildings have been constructed; the drive has been extended and nows leads into the heart of the grounds; and the whole has been filled in and leveled off until all that was ugly has been removed and the whole presents a beautiful sight.

While this work has been going on, the street railroad people have been busy with the Jackson street extension.

Some time ago that pertion of the Gate

C.ty street railroad lines from Jackson street, via Angier avenue, to the springs was abandoned. The curves and grades on that portion of the line were very severe upon stock, and when the Atlanta Street Railroad company leased this line, the track was extended to the end Jackson street. Within the past few days work men have been extending the line to Ponce de Leo wenue, and along the avenue to the springs.

This will give two routes to the springs as of old—one by the way of Peachtree, the other by the way of Wheat and Jackson streets. The latter route is a great improvement upon the old one out Angier avenue. The grade from the present end of the line on Jackson street to Ponce de Leon avenue is nu easy one, and from there the two lines run side by side t the springs. The work is being pushed ah idly, and by Saturday cars will be run over the new

This new line will doubtless do much toward the development of the residence property on the extension of Jackson street and on Ponce de eon avenue.

All that property is high and well located. The lack of convenient communication with the city has prolably hindered the development in the past, but now these two street car lines will tand to reare going up out there. Rev. Dr. Morrison has just completed a handseme home on Ponce do Loo avenue beyond Mr. Ed. Peters's home. It is under stood that Rev. Dr. Hopkins, the new president of the State Tecanological school, is negotiating for the purchase of a large lot adjoining that of Dr Morrison, and there are rumors of other purchase of real estate in the vicinity.

Dr. H. S. Orme, of Los Angeles, Cal., president of the California State board of health, and one of the most prominent physicians on the coast, is in the city for a few days. Dr. Orme is one of the old Atlanta boys, and has been kept busy shaking the hands of triends. He is a brother of Dr. Fran Orme and Mr. A. J. Orme, general agent of the At-lanta and West Point milroad.

A story which has probably never been in orint is told on the authority of Henry Wilson as to how Grant succeeded in getting the resignation of Postmaster General Jewell of his cabinet. The story runs that Grant and Jewell were alone together talking over matters, when without any previous suggestion of the subject, the president said to his Cabinent adviser, "Jewell, how do you suppose your resignation would look written out?" Jewell, thinking the question a pleasantry of Grant's, said he would write it and see. "All right," said Grant, "you just take some paper and write it down and see how it looks." Jewell wrote and handed, the paper to Grant. The latter looked at it a momentand replied: "That looks well. I will accept that.

TARIFF IN THE SOUTH.

Mr. Patrick Walsh Explains His Position.

Letter from Hon. James Bishop, Jr., of East-man, and Mr. Walsh's Reply, in Which He Discusses the Question Fully.

from the Augusta Chronicle EASTMAN, Dodge County, Ga., May 11, 1888. Hon. Patrick Walsh, Augesta, Ga.: Dear Sir-While I am not personally acquainted with you, I know you well from reputation, and I desire to express my regret that you were not elected as one of the delegates to the St. Louis convention. I assure you that you have friends here who recognize and appreciate your unselfish, patriotic and valuable service to the democratic party, and who would de-light to honor you. I am glad I had the honor and pleasure of casting the vote of Dodge county for you several years ago. Very truly yours, JAMES BISHOP, JR.

ME: WALSH'S REPLY.

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 15, 1883.—Hon. James Bishop, Jr., Eastman, Ga. Deer Sir: Your favor of the 11th received. I thank you for the complimentary manner in which you refer to my past services to the democratic party. I do not know your views upon the tariff, but I take this opportunity to explain mine, and to give my reasons for the stand taken by me in the state democratic convention last week in Atlanta. As I have received many letters from different sections of the state. I take the filterty MR; WALSH'S REPLY. from different sections of the state, I take the liberty to make public your letter and my reply.

In 1884, Grover Cleveland needed advocates in Georgia. Today 1-6 dees not need them. Those who are trying to ride into office upon his herculean shoulders and matchless record as president, were bitterly opposed to him then. Now they are for him when all the people from the mountains to the sea proclaim him their standard bearer. When the people of the south submitted their ause to the arbitrament of the sword there was hardly a plow or a shovel manufactured in the south. We had only a few scattered cotton factories. General Toombs expressed the truth none too strongly when he said "confederates were them-selves out whipping the federals." Free trade and slavery caused the collapse of the confederacy. I am for protection to develop the vast and varied resources of the South. New England, with its barren soil and frigid climate, bas become the reasury of the nation under a protective tariff. In the same system, will be ence the richest, as she is the most vored, section of the union. I plead, not so much for the manufactures of the east, but for the strug-gling industries of the south. Monopolies and trusts I detest. I am for a policy that will benefit he south, and especially the farmers. Diversified industries will appreciate the value of our lands by bringing in capital and population. Manu-factures will compel our farmers to diversify their crops to raise food supplies, for which they will obtain remunerative prices from the people employed in factories, mines and workshops. Suppose we had one hundred factories like those in Augusta in the counties above this city, would not the farmers be greatly benefited? Just think of it—there is more water power in the valley of Sayannah going to waste than there is in all the New England states. I would not give a cent for protection to build up monopolics, but I would give millions to foster and build manufacturing interests of the southern states I am for a tariff that will build up the south. Slavery is dead, and her twin sister, free trade, should be buried in the same grave.

I believe in a practical policy. In my judgment the mechanics and artisans and laboring people of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, where the battle is to be fought and won, will not support the president's message of the Mills bill as it stands. Why should rice, sugar and molasses be protected and lumber, marble, iron and coal be brought in Piffeen years ago Jefferson county, Ala., returned its property for a few millions. Last year the taxable property of that county, in which Birmingham is situated, was $30,000,000, while the property in the whole state was $16,000,000. What stronger ar-gument, is needed in the south for the protective licy? The south is the section that will be most Denefited by a continuance of the protective system.

I am opposed to the internal revenue, but if it is to be continued I would reduce the duties upon the necessaries of life and tax whisky $2 per gallon. The most gigantic monopoly-in this country is the whisky ring trust, that is protected to the amount of over 800 per cent. If the system is to be continued, why not tax whisky for consumption 32 per gallon in place of ninety cents? Why should the whisky interest be protected to the amount of $2 per gallon from foreign competition when it pays only ninety cents to the government? I am for a distinctive American policy. As long as our public debt remains, and, until we can find some better plan for the support of the government, our revenues must be collected at the customhouses of the country upon imports. These duties should be so imposed as to protect American Indus-tries and labor from foreign competition, but I would not give a dollar to monopolition or trusts. I would be wiking to accept the Mills bill, because it removes the tax on tobacco and imposes duties upon luxuries rather than upon necessaries, but I would not admit free wool, free lumber, free mar-free rice, free sugar or free molasses.

Political mistakes sometimes become political crimes. It is a mistake to depart from the Chicago platform, upon which President Cleveland was elected. It was the bridge that carried us into power safely and the party should not kick it into the stream. It declares against internal taxation, and demands that the revenue necessary for the support of the government shall be collected by a duty upon imports. It demands a revision of the tariff, and that the duties shall be so levied as not to foster monopolies, but to build up the deserving industries of the country and afford just protection to American capital, products and labor. It demands that there shall be such a fair revision of the tariff as not to collect any more money from the people than is necessary to support the government economically administered. It denounces monopo-ies and trusts, and pledges reform, and an honest administration of the affairs of the government.

The south can be relied upon to vote for President Cleveland, except as to Virginia and West Virginia, whose party platforms demand a repeal of the revenue laws. While the president recognized no just demand for the repeal of those taxes the Mills bill does not agree with him in this respect and does recognize the demand for repeal by taking off the tax on tobacco to the extent of $25,000,000. So that you see the views of the president and the proposed bolition of the tax on tobacco in the hands of the farmer, as provided for in the Mills bill, are not in

The greatest danger to our party is from the time serving politicians in and out of congress who are atraid to run counter to the views of the people, They have no convictions of their own. Out of of They have no convictions of their own. Out of office, they have no ability to make a living at any business. They are always hunting for the popular side, and are ready to change their opinions at a moment's notice and to sacrifice their friends, and even their party, to remain in office.

Why should not the leaders of the party in congress have the courage to advocate the refunding of the $60,000,000 cotton tax taken from the farmers of the south? The supreme court of the United States has decided the cotton tax to be unconstitutional. It was collected from the impoverished planters of the south under the color of the law, but the highest tribunal in the land has declared that congress had no right to pass such a law. Therefore, it should be refunded. The plant ers of the south have been robbed of $60,000,000.

If this money was refunded the surplus would not have been idle in the treasury, to keep our states men awake at night, thinking how to reduce it. If our leaders in congress had the courage of their con-victions they would not rest until this money was returned to the south.

But we must hope for the best. The party cannot win on the narrow and foolish policy outlined last week in our state convention. Virginia, New Jersey, Connecticut, and other democratic states, favor the protective policy, or are in favor of the repeal of the internal revenue law. We cannot believe that the St. Louis convention will do like the Georgia convention—adopt a platform so contracted as to exclude democrats who do not hold low tariff or free trade views. The latter are preferable to those who favor a tariff for revenue with inc dental protection. And this is the folly the St. Lou convention must not permit, if we would carry the doubtful states for President Cleveland. We must have a national platform so patriotically constructed that not only all the democrats, but all men of whatever political antecedents or present theories, whicher they are for a low or a high tariff, or even for freetrade, can stand upon and unite for the re-election of President Cleveland, who represents the principles of reform, pure political methods and benest government.

The south is not getting poorer. Millions of capital are seeking investment in almost every countern state. Witness the millions that have been invested in lands, mines and manfacturing during the last year. A reliable authority states that for the first three months of this year $27,000,000 have been put in southern enterprises. It would be mad-ness for our party to do anything that would interfere with the marvelous development of the south's wonderful mineral wealth and manufacturing pos-ibilities. In nine years the taxable property of Georg'a, according to the last report of Comptroller-General Wright, has increased over $100,00,000. For these reasons I favor the protective policy of the democratic party as enuclated in the Chicago platform. The material development upon which the south has entered, if fostered by the national government, will make her in the next twenty years the most prosperous section of the union. No class of our people will be so much benefitted by

I have been so that people with the south. I am for the development of the south. I am for the development of the agricultural, mining and mineral resources of the whole country and especially of the south, and the supremacy of the democratic party in the control of the government. The scale of Provident Carpeting of Pr ment. The re-election of President Cleveland is the greatest blessing that can happen to the south. He has made one of the best presidents since the administration of Washington. While I have strong convictions as to the best rolley for the party in the presidential election, I will cheerfully surrender any views that I may entertain and bow to the will of the majority.

Democracy is my political faith, and however much I may be criticised for an honest difference of engingen uses in the presidential cuestions. I will ent. The re-election of President Cleveland

When the men who are now in the ascendancy were not for President Cleveland, and when he most needed support before his neutination at Chi-cago in 1881, I was his earnest advocate. I lelt then as I feel now, that he is our best and most available I have written you at length. I do not wish to be misunderstood by the people of the state who have honored me as a delegate to national conventions. In conclusion, let me thank you for your generous appreciations of my services, and assure you that I have suffered no wounds from defeat. Yours very sincerely,

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Some Sharp Contrasts. EDITORS CONSTITUTION: - The defeat of Par Walsh, by the help and connivance of Senator Colquitt, whose devoted friend Mr. Walsh had been for ten years is a deeper matter than personal ingratitude. The readiness of Senator Colquitt to conciliate enemies by the sacrifice of friends is not disputed I believe, but let me show you some conrasts that have struck me.

1. Everybody is shouting for Cleveland now, and rightly. I have read a letter written by Governo olquitt just before the convention of 1884, four rages long, in which he urged that it would be cer-tain defeat to nominate Cleveland, and that Bayard was the only hope of the democracy. He demonstrated positively that Cleveland's nomination meant ruin, and he wrote these letters all over the state of Georgia. Patrick Walsh, The Constitution and Senator Brown, were at that time earnestly advocating Cleveland's nomination. Everybody ad mits now that if Senator Colquitt's advice had been followed, and Cleveland beaten at Chicago, the de-mocracy would have now been in the minority, and Mr. Bayard would have been snowed under. 2. Now mark this sensible men mark it Senator Colquitt fought Cleveland's nomination, and swore it meant ruin to nominate him. Fat Walsh fought for Cleveland's nomination, and voted for it, while Colquitt was helping Tamminy to break Cleveland down, and nominate Bayard. Now Pat Walsh is beaten by Colquitt's help, as a delegate to St. Lonis, because he did not agree with a certain theory of Cleveland's as expressed in a late message. As soon as Cleveland was elected, Senator Colquitt get close in, and, coming down here to bessit vention, declared that no man ought to ge Louis who disagreed with Cleveland. Wo Senator Colquitt's letter advocating Bayard, and declaring that Cleveland's nomination would rain the party, look well in this connection

I do not approve of bringing up the Markham house conference against Mr. Cox, but let me quote one i em from the Markham house platform, which Mr. Cox signed.

Now, mark you, Mr. Cox claims that he, Dr. Felton, and others, had the Markham house conference because neither the democratic nor republican party was fit to be supported. This is one of the reasons that was given, covering a plank in the platform of Mr. Cox's new party.

"As soon as the reduction of the national debt shall permit, we favor the repeat of all internat revenue laws, and believe that all the revenue of the federal government should be raised by a tariff upon the foreign articles imported into this country, and which lariff shall so discriminate in its provisions as to afford ample encouragement and incidental protection to all home industries."

Now mark this. Here, Mr. Cox Joining with Dr.

Felton, del berately quit the democratic party and denounced the democratic party be-cause it would not repeal the internal revenue, and indorsed protective tariff. These two things, the repeal of the internal revenue and the indorof protective tariff, were two of the things that Mr. Cox quit the democratic party for, and signed his name to a platform embodying these principles, and party and join his new party, which should be ledged to the repeal of the internal revenue and to

Mr. Walsh has never quit the democratic party. He has never wavered one moment in its support. He has never been in a Markham house onference, but he has said all the time that he would subordinate his opinions to the good of the party, and would support the nominee whoever he might be, on the platform whatever it

And yet, Mr. Walsh, who disagreeing with the party on certain points, yielded these opinions openly and frankly for the party's good, was slaughtered and kicked out, and Mr. Cox, who disagreeing with the party on these very points, quit the party, and called on everybody else to quit, denounced the party and tried to organize a new party, that would make a protective tariff and repeal the internal revenue, was elected a delegate.

Now, I have nothing to say about Mr. Cox. He is honest in his views, and was frank in them; but it is strange that the convention should deliberately discredit Mr. Walsh, who stands by the vertice and subcodings his views to its recognition. with the party on these very points, quit the party, THIRD. ONE MORE THOUGHT.

Two weeks before the convention was held Mr.
Walsh, in an editorial, stated that he favored the re-election of Senator Colquitt, although he disagreed with him on the tarift. He was true to his old love, and his old friendship, and doubtless thought of the time when he stood for two weeks in thought of the time when he stood for two weeks in a convention, impregnable against threat or inducement, and fought for Colquit. In less than two weeks Governor Colquit came to Atlanta to attend the state convention, and without a word saw Mr. Walsh cut down and humiliated, and four men who had fought him forten years, and who had fought him for ten years, and who had fought him in the very convention in which Mr. Walsh was his champton and leader, put on and placed over him. Yet in spite of this, I am

I have the proof that he was in the room when the slate was made and was in active consultation over it. He was brought there by Collector Crenshaw."

The writer may be "no politician;" of this I cannot say until he unmasks himself; but one thing I do know, he cannot say, that he is "no Munchausen." I did not carry or accompany Senator Colquitt to any room or place during his recent visit to this city, where any "slate" or ticket was agreed on or consulted about for delegates to the St. Louis convention. I brought him to no room or place whatever, and accompanied him to none other than overtaking him on the street and walking a short distance with him. I know of no caucus held and know nothing of any "slate" agreed on. Mr. George Eddleman Fired the Fatal Shot.

A Terrible Shooting Affray, Which Resulted the Death of One of Atlanta's Best *Citizens-The Details of the Affair,

Yesterday afternoon, at half-past three p'clock, Mr. Thomas G. Gresham, the assistant Western and Atlantic yardmaster, was shot and fatally wounded by Mr. G. H. Eddleman, the real estate man.

The shooting occurred in the Merchants' exchange, a combined bar and lunch counter, kept by Mr. James Johnson, at 12 and 14 Whitehall street—the old E i Mercer place.

At the time of the shooting there were present, besides the two gentlemen engaged in the difficulty, John Marquis, a Swiss in charge of the funch counter, John Mechan, an ex-policeman, in charge of the bar; Mr. N. Emanuel, the broker on Pryor street, and the negro boy behind the lunch counter.

The shot was followed immediately by an exclamation as if one was hurt, and several people rushed into the place. There are two entrances, one opening from Whitehall street into the bar, and the other from the Merchants' Exchange alley into the lunch apartment. One of the first to enter was Mr. Nick Simpson, the hailiff. He entered the rear door and met Mr. Gresham with his hands

It was evident from the start that death was a question of hours and minutes. All that could be done was done to alleviate the pain.
The ball had entered the abdomen, about five inches below the ribs, on the right side, and about two inches from the middle line of the body. Structures in the abdomen were probably injured but the shock was so great that it prevented exploratory operation.

Just over the wound was a nearly circular

The wound had been made with a

Another visitor was Dr. Wooley. He had been sent down by the prisoner's counsel to examine the wound. Mr. Eddleman told to him there, and repeated the story subsequently, in the presence of Mr. Mayson, the following account of the difficulty:

"I had gone down and taken a drink with Mr. Joe Smith, the attorney. Then I ordered dinner—mutton chops—and while I was waiting and while I was waiting and while I was cating, I was talking to Mr. Emanuel, who sat at the lunch counter next to me, about the secret orders. I have been worried considerably of late by telephone messages for my bookkeeper—he's worshipful right hand secretary in a number of them. I remarked to Mr. Emanuel:

I knew it was a matter of life and death, and after he had cut at my throat for half a minute, forcing me back every step, I drew my pistol and shot. He said, 'My God, I am shot.' I laid the pistol down on the counter and then the balliff took me off. It was in self defense, and I had no more idea of getting out alive than I have of rhying now."

As the doctor finished the examination and stepped out the stationhouse a Constitution reporter asked:

An Eye Witness.

Mr. Emanuel was found last night at his home on Eugenia street.

"Yes, I was there," he said, "and this is about the way it was: It was sitting at the end of the lunch counter nearest Whitehall when Mr. Eddleman came and took a stool next to me. Another visitor was Dr. Wooley. He had been sent down by the prisoner's counsel to examine the wound. Mr. Eddleman told to him there, and repeated the story subsequently, in the presence of Mr. Mayson, the following account of the difficulty:

"I had gone down and taken a drink with Mr. Joe Smith, the attorney. Then I ordered dinner—mutton chops—and while I was waiting and while I was eating, I was talking to Mr. Emanuel, who sat at the lunch counternext to me, about the secret orders. I have been worried considerably of late by telephone messages for my bookkeeper—he's worshipful right hand secretary in a number of them. I remarked to Mr. Emanuel:

"I believe old Jimmy Waddell had the thing down right. He said that not everybody in the secret orders was a rascal, but that he never knew a rascal that was not in a secret order." I didn't know Gresham was in the room until he spoke up quickly:

the room until he spoke up quickly:
"You are a G-d d-d lfar.

"I turned and saw him.
"You don't mean that, Tom," I said to him.

"'Yes by G—d I do,' he replied as he started towards me. As he struck at me I hit him over the head with a light cane and broke the cane. He then drew a knife and began slashcane. He then drew a knife and began slashing at me. I knew it was a matter of life and death, and after he had cut at my throat for half a minute, forcing me back every step, I drew my pistol and shot. He said, 'My God, I am shot.' I half the pistol down on the counter and then the bailiff took me off. It was in self defense, and I had no more idea of getting out alive than I have of flying now."

THAT CUT ON THE FACE.

As the doctor finished the examination and stepped out the stationhouse a Constitution reporter asked:
"Doctor, was that setatch made with a knife?"

knife?"

"Now, I—well, I wouldn't like to be quoted.
There's no earthly telling, you know. If a knife blade had the point broken off it might make that sort of a scratch in just grazing by.
It's a curving sort of a scratch, but if the skin had been wrinkled—if his head had been on one side, you know, it might possibl have been done with a knife."

"Do you think that was done with a knife?"

"Do you think that was done with a knife?"
The doctor smiled, and hesitated. "It might not do to talk now," he said. "There's no telling."

Mr. Emanuel was found last night at his home on Eugenia street.

"Yes, I was thero," he said, "and this is about the way it was: I was sitting at the end of the lunch counter nearest Whitehall when Mr. Eddleman came and took a seol next to me. I knew both him and Mr. Greshan by sight, and nodded to Eddleman as he sat down beside me. A Mr. Richards was also eating when Eddleman came in. ABOUT SECRET ORGANIZATIONS.

The topic was not particularly agreeable so it was not encouraged. I merely nodded occasionally, but he talked right ahead, telling how he had been troubled by telephone messages for his book keeper who was a high rockalorum in seventeen of them. He was quite abusive, saying that no gentleman would belong to a secret society, and that while he would not say away man in them was arascal, he would say that he never knew a rascal that was not in one of them. He said a great many things to the same effect. He branched off once to talk about his office, but soon got back to the same topic. It was during the latter part of this talk that Mr. Richards went out and Mr. Gresham came in, He nodded to Mr. Eddleman, and sald: 'Howdy, George," and Mr. Eddleman said, 'Hello, Tom.' Affair.

dy, George," and Mr. Eddleman said, 'Hello, Tom.'

"Mr.Eddleman|continued|to talk about secret societies until he had finished his meal, and as he went by Mr. Gresham, that gentleman turned on his stool and said something to him. That was after Mr. Eddleman had left his stool and paid for his lunch, and then started out. All I heard of the remark was: "It isn't so. I belong to some myself and I'm a gentleman." Mr. Eddleman said rather curtly: 'Do you want to take it up?" Mr. Gresham stepped from the stool and said, 'Yes, sir. What you said Points About People.

What you said

"Mr. Eddleman hit him over the head with a light cane, and at the second lick the cane broke. He hit him about twice more with the cane, and it broke agian, leaving a piece about a foot long in Mr. Eddleman's hand. All this while Mr. Gresham was striking out, but he has only one hand, you know, the other being cut off at the wrist, and I don't think he hit Mr. Eddleman once-certainly not a fair blow. When the stick broke the second time, Mr. Eddleman dropped the piece, and, as Mr. Gresham again struck at him, he and fired. Mr. Gresham threw both hands to his stomach and said, 'My God, I am shot.' Then the people began pouring in."

"Well, didn't Mr. Gresham have a knife in his band. his hand when he was shot?"

"Not that I saw—and I would have seen it if there was one. You see he is a one-handed man, and he cau't open a knife as readily as if he had two hands; and I must have noticed it if he had a knife or pistol." Mr. Marquis Talks.

Mr. John Marquis said yesterday: "I heard Mr. Eddleman talking about secret organizations all the while, and the next think I saw Mr. Eddleman hit Mr. Gresham with a cane. I think they had had a few words just before that. The cane broke, and then Mr. Eddleman drew a pistol and shot Mr. Gresham. That's all I am going to say about it until tomorrow."

The negro waiter, John Hull, was quite as The negro water, John Hull, was quite as brief, and repeated about the same story. Both of these conversations took place before the talk with Mr. Eddleman, and nothing was said about a kaife. When seen subsequently, Mr. Marquis refused absolutely to say anything about it, or answer any questions, and the negro could not be found.

Mr. Mechan's Story. Mr. Mechan's Story.

Mr. Mechan said:

"I saw the shooting. They were standing about six or seven feet apart when the shooting was done, and after Mr. Eddlemm had broken his cane over Mr. Gresham's head."

"Did Mr. Gresham have a knife?"

"Not that I saw, and I was watching them."

"Would you have seen it if there had been one?"

"I don't see how I could help it. I didn't age anything of a knife, or of a pistol either.

Mr. Eddleman wanted to prove by me just after the shooting that Mr. Gresham had a pistol. I hadn't seen any pistol but his. Mr. Gresham, just before he went out, threw back his coat so we could all see, and said: 'I haven't a pistol; I don't carry one.'"

"What about a knife?"

"I didn't see any. The minute he was shot Mr. Gresham put both hands over his stemach. I didn't hear anybody say anything about a knife. I didn't see any in his hand, and I didn'tsee one lying around. He has only one hand, too." What about a knife?

The Two Men.

Both men are known to be impulsive, and both have many friends in Atlanta. Mr. fresham has been with the Western and At-antic road for over twenty years, and his popularity is something remarkable. Mr. Eddleman is a successful real estate man. It will be remembered that he has several times will be remembered that he has several times figured in a hip-pocket story, being arrested not long ago with three pistols on his person. He is pleasant and courteous, ordinarily, but is regarded dangerous when under the influence of liquor. The general testimeny of fluence of liquor. The general testimeny of those that saw him yesterday, about the time of the shooting, was that he had been drinking, but was not drunk. Mr. Johnson Not There.

Mr. James Johnson, the preprietor of the establishment in which the shooting occurred, desires it stated that he was not in the saloon at the time the shooting took place. He was at home during the entire afternoon, being detained there by the illness of members of his family. The Funeral will take place from the late residence of the deceased, 158 S. Forsyth street, this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, The remains will be interred at Oakland cemetery. In His Cell.

Lastnight about a quarter before eleven o'clock, about a quarter of an hour after Mr. Gresham died at his home, Mr. Eddleman was found lying in cell No. 2. With him were Colonel Rube Arnold and another gentleman. "Come in," said Mr. Eddleman. "Yes, come in," echoed Colonel Rube Arnold.

"Did you know Mr. Gresham was dead?"
"No," replied Mr. Eddleman calmly, "is he dead?"

"Yes, he died at 10:25."
"Well," said Mr. Eddieman, "I couldn't help that. I shot him in self defense."
"Yes," said Colonel Arnold, "it was all done in self defense."

The Boisterous Atlantic

Is a terror to timid voyagers, scarcely less on account of the perils of the deep than the almost certainty of sea sickness. The best curative of mal de mer is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which settles the stomach at once and prevents its disturbance. To all travelers and tourists, whether by sea or land, it presents a happy medium between the mauseous or ineffectual resources of the medicine chest, and the problematical benefit derivable from an unmedicated alcoholic stimulant, no matter how pure. The jarring of a railroad car often produces stomach disorders akin to that caused by the rolling of a ship. For this the Bitters is a prompt and certain remedy. The use of brackish water, particularly on long voyages in the tropics, inevitably breeds disorders of the stomach and bowels. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters mixed with impure water nullifies its impurities. Similarly it counteracts malarial and other prejudicial influences of climate or atmosphere, as well as the effects of exposure and fatigue. Use it for kidney complaints, rheumatism and debility.

That tired feeling and loss of appetite are entirely overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine. Try it and see.

FETZER & 12 Whitehall Street.

Some persons wear clothing because the law compels them to do so. Others because it is fashionable, and still others in order to present a genteel and stylish appearance. It is to the latter class we especially address these remarks.

There is Clothing and Clothing. Some is thrown together; some is sewed together and some built with that artistic care and skill that the artist exercises in producing his masterpieces. To the latter class belong the majority of our stock. The clothing we present to the trade are genuineworks of art-productions of the artist, enamored with his work. Not the output of mere machines with a set task for each garment, but evolutions from the artist, in which each garment is stamped with a rigid individuality that marks it distinctly Tailor-Made.

Canadian Chiarrh Cure Co.:

Gentlamen—My wife was a great sufferer with Catarrh for over two years. She has been a little troubled ever since she was a child with the disease. About two years ago we were in Mississippi, and while three she was taken down with catarrhal fever; we had three of the best physicians we could get. They broke the fever and left her the worst case of catarrh of the head I eve. saw. Her nose ran profusely, and for a year I despated of her ever getting well. I tried several doctors and they could not cure her, andused every catarrh remedy I could hear of. I spent over $50 the past year for remedies, and all to no effect. At last it became so oftensive that you could hardly remain where she was. I offered $1,000 to any doctor who would cure her (and that would have left us homelesse), but I would not have cased for that if she could only be cured. We saw an advertisement in the Atlanta Constitution of "Canadian Catarrh Cure." and thought we would try it, and went to your office, when you give my rife a small sample bottle of your remedy, and her health fully restored, and now does more work than any woman I know. She used the medicine over six months ago, and there has not been the stiphest resum or the disease. I hope everytody that has catarrh may find you and he cured. I am a traveling man and have told a great many of your wonderful cure. Yours truly.

Richmond and West Point was the only weak spot, and was sold freely, thouch for which side was not apparent, but the theory was that there could be no election, as neither side held enough stock to demand a call. The success of the Buttimore and Ohio loan was influential in the Lullish feeling, and this also developed a firm belief that the Reading loan would meet with equal success, which gave a stimulance to trading in coalers and Reading and Lackawanna became active and strong. THE CHICAGO MARKET. Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Had tone of the markets for today been judged by the opening prices on change, many of the professional bears would have been full. Wheat differed from everything else in having its opening prices, which wefe 3/4 lower. Chan last night, bottom for the day. Before noon, however, there was such general building of the market, that prices advanced 13/4 from opening figures. It was, as the bulls regard it, another stride towards the dollar. Wheat advance was not on cables or foreign news, but against it, and it spite of it. Bu'ge he: e was largely due to the few leading houses. When the crowd was unloading yesterday, the big fellows kept still, and many thought they were getting Grain and Provisions. the crowd was unloading yesterday, the big fetlows kept still, and many thought they were getting from under wheat. When the market opened this morning, about two cents below where they stopped bulging it two days ago, they put their buckers into the pit, and with the help of crowd, who bid up to get in again, prices were advanced 1½, July opened at 87½, sold down to 87½, reacted and advanced to 90½, and closed at 90. Corn was without startling feature today. It showed weakness by opening ½ lower than last night. It showed further weakness lower than last night. It showed further weakness lower than last night. It showed further weakness by decline of ½ to ½ from opening prices. Out inspection was quite large, and after wheat had climbed over ie, corn rallied, and sold at noon up to last night't prices, which were highest for the session. May opened at 59½, declined to 55½, and closed at 59. July opened at 59½, declined to 57½, and closed at 57½. Oats opened stendy at about last night's prices, showed weakness early with corn, and after slight rally closed about treads. May need between $2.402814 (closed about treads.) steady. May sold between 34%@35%, closing at 35; July, 33%®%. Provision market was slow, and without special attractions to any class of operators, scalpers offered product moderately. Early strong tone developed, but later 'it turned to weakness tone developed, but later 1: turned to weatless, especially in pork, which broke 15c from the outside figures. July opened at 14.42½, sold at 45, advanced to 50, broke to 35, and closed at 14.40. July lard sold at 8.47½@50, closed at 8.50. One operator bought 750,000 pounds of shortribs. July ranged at

Miss Sophia Metzger Loses Ten Dollar Gold Piece,

And Charges the Ladles in Her Employ With Stealing the Coin-A Violent Search and Two Warrants

A sensational case will be tried by Justice Manning this morning at half-past 9 o'clock. Miss Sophie Metzger will appear as the detendant, and the charge is assault and battery.

against her this morning are a number of young ladies in her employ.

The trouble is all about a ten-dollar goldpiece. It seems that Miss Metzger lost one of these beatiful and popular coins in her establishment, and with a downcast face was on a still hunt for the missing money, when one of the young ladies asked:

"What are you looking for?"

"I've lost ten dollars in gold and I know that somebody in here has stolen it," replied the lady.

"Tye lost ten dollars in gold and I know that somebody in here has stolen it," replied the lady.

The young ladles got mad and flatly denied the serious accusation. Miss Metzger became very angry, and commanded each young lady to turn her pockets. At this some of the young ladies began to cry, but all of themturned their pockets. No money was found in them.

Miss Metzger, it is stated, then took three of the ladies—Miss Shackleford, Miss Smith and Miss Kerne—Into another room and searched them thoroughly. It is said that she tore their dresses, and even removed their shoes.

Still no money was found.

The ladies quitted the shop and told their friends of this indignity.

Relatives of Misses Smith and Kerne went before Justice Manning and swore out two warrants against Miss Metzger, charging her with assault and battery.

Messrs. J. W. & L.B. Austin will appear for the prosecution.

In Which an Atlantian is Taking an Active Part.

Augusta is enjoying one of the most remarkable booms in its history, and everything is being put in readiness to make as attractive showing as possible to the immense number of visitors who will see the city this year.

experience in the hetel line, is assurance of the fact that the Planters will become more popular than ever.

The Augusta Evening News says of the hotel, under its new management:

Mr. W. A. Gemp, a well-known and successful hotelkeeper, has taken charge of the old and always popular Planters hotel, in Augusta. Mr. Camp comes to our city fortified with some of the best in dorsements and recommendations a man ever had; but these are not necessary, because Mr. Camp is too widely and popularly known to the traveling public to require any indorsement. His success at New Holland Springs, and several other resorts, is too well known, and the people of Augusta, especially those who are compelled to board, no less than the traveling public; are to be congratulated. Mr. Camp knows the tender spot in human nature, and will lend the biggest side of his energy and experience in making the table the chief attraction. In this, Mr. Camp at once demonstrates his fitness for the place. His waiters and portern and assistants will be neatly uniformed and badged, so that guests can always tell an attache of the Planters. This house has, for years and years, been the leading hotel in Augusta, and now that it has again fallen into competent and clever hands, it will undoubtedly hold its place in the procession, and we have the promise of a real first-class men, as a fact and not a myth. Atlanta folks will be glad to know that when they visit Augusta they can find first-class accommodations with an old and tried fellow-townsman.

The best-cigars offered the trade-always command a big sale. That fact is true with the Grand Republic cigarros. These famous luxuries aremanufactured by the great cigar house of George P. The fact that the Grand Republic cigarros and Buffo are a real ten cent article sold for five cents had much to do with their popularity. These cigars have been recognized for ome time as leaders in this market, and it is safe to say they will continue to lead. The buffos are put up four in a package and sold for ten cents. Four buffos, costing you ten cents, will furnish you more solid enjoyment than any other four cigars costing you twenty cents. What will you do? Why, smoke the buffos and the Grand Republic cigarros. FRIGHTENED TO DEATH. The Duc de Campselice, Who Married the Widow of Singer, Drops Dead of

There seems to be a halo of romance, mystery and tragedly surrounding the life-histories of all whose lives brought them into comtact with Singer, the millionaire sewing machine man. It seems that his widow, formerly governess in his family, after his death traveled extensively in Europe. While there she met a fiddler in the Paris Grand Opera, married him, and by stratery and purchase obtained for him the title of Duc de Campsellee. But, poor man, his luck and his happiness were short-lived.

He and his wife were in Naples at the time of the great earthquake, and the terror so overcame the Duc that he contracted suddenly a nervous affection of the heart, that made his life miserable. He hardly dared move, fearing excitement, in which case he suffered the most terrible ageny from Neuralgie Spasm of the heart (Angina Pectoris).

Knowing this is an enemy of his, envying his good fortune, determined to play a practical joke upon him. He sent an undertaker to the Chatieau de Hesseville, in Normandy, where the Duc and his wife were residing, to measure the Duc for his coffin. When the undertaker stated his errand, a sudden saam contracted the Duc's heart, and he dropped dead upon the ficor. It was a terrible revenge.

Neuralgia of the Heart is becoming a common complaint now-a-days. Sudden shock, intense fear, fits of sarger or slow prolonged over-strain of the brain or nerves may sow the seeds of this terrible disease. Half the sudden deaths are due to spasm of the heart, and housands of men and women are walking the streets today who are liable to drop quickly that the Savannah knight; were entitled to the prize.

The prize was a mammoth punch bowl, made of batted silver and lined with gold.

After the drill the knights returned to the city and repaired to the all, corner of Whitehall and Alabama streets, where a collation was awaiting them Henry Beermann was master of ceremonies, and the famous "artillery punch" was brewed under his immediate supervision. For several hours the knights and their friends onjoyed themselves.

During a lull in the festivities Grand Chancellor Hunnicut formally presented the prize to the winners. It was received in behalf of the Savannah division by Captain W. A. Walker, who made a very happy little speech, which elicited rounds of applause.

At 7;30 o'clock all the visitors left the city for home, much pleased with the way in which they had been entertained.

AN OBSCENE SPEECH Clears the House Calleries of INDIGNATION OVER THE MATTER. A Large Crowd of Ladles Gather to Hear at a New Member's Remarks.

Ladies.

WASHINGTON, May 17.-[Special.]-In the house this afternoon there was the most disceful scene by one of the republican men graceful scene by one of the republican mem-bers that surpasses anything of the kind al-most within the history of congress. Mr. Mason, of Chicago, is a new member and ordi-narily bright, but today he so far forgot himself as to deliver one of the most vulgar, dirty and obscene speeches that has ever been heard in the halls of congress. In brief the grossness of its obscenity is too pronounced to appear in any reputable newspaper. There was so much any reputable newspaper. There was so much vulgarity that it drove from the galleries the thousand or more ladies who had gathered there more for the purpose of listening to the able speech of Sunset Cox. The majority of the people in the galleries were those who are here in attendance upon the Baptist convention. There is some talk that Mason may be brought to the bar of the house and reprimanded, if not turned out.

Senator Veerhees, of Indiana, made a great speech tonight before the Indiana association, vindicating himself of the charges made by Senator Ingalis in the senate a few days ago. There were several thousand people present; many prominent southern congressmen were on the stage. Friends of the administration who went from here to attend the New York state democratic convention have returned not quite satsefled with the tariff resolution in the platform. They say there was a resolution drawn which Indorsed the Mills bill by name, and that there was a large majority of the convention in favor of it. It was to prevent a small and very earnest minority from making a noise and disturbing the harmony of the convention that they consented to adopt merely the indorsement of the Cleveland message. The thing was brought about by Messrs. Cooper and Herrick, both of whom are avowed Cleve-land men, the latter especially being looked upon as an ardent defender and advocate of the administration. It was due to an unaccountable opposition on the part of Messrs. Hewitt and Cooper to the Mills bill, rather than have an open rupture with even a small minority of the convention, in which they wanted perfected harmony, they consented to mit the Mills bill from the resolutions, leav-Ing the indorsement of that specifically to the national convention.

The leading republican members of the house caucussed on the tariff question today, but the conference revealed the fact that there was a considerable difference among the members of the caucus committee. This difference was made apparent not so much in the consideration of the Mills proposition as in the failure to agree upon the line of the substitute bill, which was to be offered by the republicans for the Mills bill. It is expected, how-ever, that as usual they will unite upon some measure. The plan of the democrats of the ways and means committee now is to make a thorough canvass of the house on Saturday after the closing speech of Speaker Carlisle, and if they find enough supporters of the bill to carrying it through they will then make an attempt to have a test vote. If, however, they do not find a majority who favor the bill the appropriation bills will be taken up and delayed until after the St. Louis tion, which they expect will adopt the bill in the platform and force all democrats to vote for it. A southern democrat, who favors the bill, said to me tonight that if a vote was taken before action by the St. Louis convention its defeat would be certain. He had no doubt but that at least ten democrats would vote

The Post, of this city, is still fighting democratic opponents of the bill, and wants all who hold to the creed of the opposite side to change places. Even the most earnest advocates of the bill censure the Post for its course, and rifice will no longer acknowledge it to be the organ of the administration. It is, however, said that the president thinks the Post is pursuing the correct course. A SLIM AUDIENCE.

There was never such a farce enacted in the ouse of representatives as that tonight. There were five speakers-Sawyer, Maish, Romeis, Spooner and Nichols. Besides these only two democrats, McMillen and Springer, and one republican, Lyman, were present. Lyman occupied the chair, while the republi-cans were speaking, and some other members amused themselves by telling jokes in the lobby. During Nichols's speech only the chairman and official reporters were in the hall, while in the gallery two negroes were stretched out on a bench, asleep. He neverthe-less spoke to the empty hall for almost an NAVAL DISPLAY AT PORT ROYAL. Representative Elliott, of South Carolina, oddy received information from Secretary Whitney that the North Atlantic squadren would arrive at Port Royal on the 20th, where they will rendezvous for a week. Secretary Whitney has instructed Admiral Luce to treat visitors who are expected there at that time to a grand naval display. The citizens of Port Royal and Beaufort have invited the two yacht clubs of Charleston and Savannah to visit them during the display. The exact date has not been decided upon, but it will probably be either the 23d or the 24th. The admiral will fix the day after his arrival. The squadron consists of the Atlantic, the Richmond, the Ossippee, the Yantic and the Dolphin.

PENSION APPROPRIATIONS.

The Senate Adopts the Committee's Amendment and the Bill Passes. WASHINGTON, May 17 .- In the senate, the ension appropriation bill was taken up, the question being on the amendment reported by the committee on appropriations to strike out the words, "That in all pensions to widows, payments shall be made from the date of death of the husband," and to insert, "That all payments which have been, or which may hereafter be granted under the general laws regulating pensions to widows in consequence of death occurring from cause which originated in the service since the 4th of March, 1861, shall commence from the date, of death of the hall commence from the date of death of the

Mr. Cockrell moved to amend the amendment by striking out the words "which have been, or," so as to confine its application to future pensions. He estimated that the additional cost under the senate amendment would be $1,473,000. If his own amendment would be $756,000. If, however, the house provision were agreed to, there was no estimating its cost, and the senate was absolutely at sea without compass or chart in reference to it.

After a long debate, Mr. Cockrell's amendment was disagreed to—yeas 20, nays 23—a party vote, except that Mr. Blodgett voted with the republicans in the negative.
